

GLIMPSES: A GAZE

How does the meaning when we perceive something for only a moment in time change once we observe more closely? Who are we in this environment versus another? And how does race and gender give context to what becomes visible? Glimpses; a gaze is a call for artists to harness the power of the gaze to combat inaccessibility or to heighten ambiguity, dictating the role and power structure between artist and viewer.
